Unlike many small businesses, we have our own staff of mobile welders, engineers, and equipment specialists, so we can maintain the highest level of responsiveness when our customers need us most.

Our environmental solutions are designed not just to help you complete your project safely and efficiently, but to provide a sustainable alternative to other products on the market. We manufacture our own industrial matting systems and containment products to protect environmentally sensitive areas. Our customers benefit from our longstanding relationships with top equipment manufacturers and dealers in the nation, which enable us to offer the best prices and support.

The Bar Star team has several years of energy, construction and environmental experience to assist our customers in making the best choices for their projects.
